

A technical line drawing of a mechanical assembly. A central rod or shaft runs diagonally from the bottom left towards the top right. It is connected to various components: a circular flange or pulley at the top right, a rectangular block with a circular feature at the top center, and a curved bracket-like structure at the bottom left. Several bolts and nuts are shown securing the assembly. The drawing is a black and white line art style.

MB991671

AK201791AC